Quick on Your Feet
Spontaneous Speaking Practice
by Ric Oquita

Contents:

„The best responses always occur to me after the key moment has passed!” Especially in a foreign language, but often in principle, a quick reaction in the in the heat of the moment is a matter of training. The workshop helps to act appropriately and confidently in the context of many situations relevant to scientific communication – in networks, in discussions and in contacts with high status individuals.

This decidedly practical training uses structured feedback and active forms of practice, in both formal and informal situations.
